Isaiah 10:5-7, 13b-16

Psalms 94:5-6, 7-8, 9-10, 14-15

Matthew 11:25-27

No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son wishes to reveal him.

The phrase, and anyone to whom the Son wishes to reveal him, is what shimmered for me today. Jesus set out to reveal the Father to everyone, including those not valued by the culture and society of his day. If I am to put on his sandals and continue his walk, then to whom am I revealing the Father?

Let this be thy whole endeavor, this thy prayer, this thy desire,--that thou mayest be stripped of all selfishness, and with entire simplicity follow Jesus only.

--Thomas à Kempis

To whom have you revealed the love of God today?
